RESEARCHER'S TAKEAWAY: "The results of this study suggest that the use of a single, standardized measure of social support may not be sufficient to capture the complexity of social support in the workplace. Future research should explore the use of multiple measures of social support, including both structural and functional support, to better understand the role of social support in workplace health and well-being."

Lawyer wants more tests on Andal Sr.

By John M. Anderson

ST. LOUIS — A lawyer representing a family of a man who was killed in a 2007 shooting in St. Louis has filed a lawsuit with the St. Louis County Circuit Court, asking for a new autopsy of the victim, Jose Andres Andal Sr., who was 42 years old at the time of his death.

The lawsuit, filed by attorney Robert J. Anderson, Jr., on behalf of the family, alleges that the original autopsy was flawed and that the family was not properly informed of the results. The family wants a new autopsy to be performed to determine the exact cause of death and to rule out any other potential causes.

The original autopsy was performed by the St. Louis County Medical Examiner's Office. The family's lawyer claims that the autopsy report was incomplete and that the family was not given a copy of the report. The family also claims that the autopsy was not conducted in a timely manner and that the results were not shared with the family in a clear and concise manner.

The lawsuit seeks damages for the family's emotional distress and for the costs of the new autopsy. The family also wants the St. Louis County Medical Examiner's Office to be held accountable for the original autopsy.

The family's lawyer, Robert J. Anderson, Jr., said that the family is "devastated" by the death of Jose Andres Andal Sr. and that they want to know the truth about what happened. He said that the family has been told that the original autopsy was "flawed" and that they need a new one to get the answers they need.

The St. Louis County Medical Examiner's Office has not yet responded to the lawsuit. The office has a long history of conducting autopsies and has been praised for its work in the past. However, the family's lawyer claims that the office's work in this case was substandard.

PH: Peace talks near stalemate

ST. LOUIS — The peace talks between the United States and the Taliban in Afghanistan are near a stalemate, according to a report from the New York Times. The report says that the talks have been going on for several months, but that the two sides have not been able to reach an agreement. The report also says that the talks are being held in a secret location and that the details of the talks are being kept hidden from the public.

The report says that the United States is offering the Taliban a deal that would allow them to return to Afghanistan and fight against the Taliban. The deal would also allow the Taliban to keep their weapons and to continue to fight against the Taliban. The report says that the Taliban is not interested in the deal and that they want to continue to fight.

The report says that the peace talks are being held in a secret location and that the details of the talks are being kept hidden from the public. The report also says that the talks are being held in a secret location and that the details of the talks are being kept hidden from the public.

300 suspected 'flying voters' held

More than 300 suspected "flying voters" were held in a series of raids across the state on Tuesday, according to election officials. The raids were part of a larger effort to ensure the integrity of the upcoming election. Officials said the suspects were caught in various locations, including homes and public places. The suspects are being held in custody while the investigation continues. The state election board is working to identify the individuals and determine if any of them are eligible to vote. The board is also looking for more information about the alleged voting operation.

Sales of auto importers up 41% in Jan-Feb

By David Sison

MANILA (Philippines)

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Sales of imported cars by dealers in Manila rose 41 percent in January and February from the same months last year, according to the Philippine Motor Vehicle Association (PMVA).

The PMVA said that in January, sales rose 41 percent to 1,100 units from 780 units in January 2000. In February, sales rose 41 percent to 1,200 units from 850 units in February 2000.

The PMVA said that the increase in sales was due to the launch of several new car models by dealers in Manila. The PMVA said that the increase in sales was also due to the fact that many dealers in Manila have been able to secure lower prices for imported cars from their suppliers.

The PMVA said that the increase in sales is a good sign for the Philippine auto industry. The PMVA said that it expects sales to continue to rise in the coming months.
